

Adsorptech represents the SME exporter at the national level

Adsorptech's Jim Flaherty was invited to and participated at the 30 September 2015 White House Business Council discussing the needs of a USA small business exporter, the President's trade agenda and the current status of the TPP negotiations. Jim adds "This was quite an honor for Adsorptech to represent one of USA small business voice at the national level to define what a SME (Small to Medium Enterprise) with limited resources needs from our government to expand exports and create USA jobs.
